Beware this Summer....

Here at the Ark we have had our first 'Heat' related emergency of the Summer. Luckily the Pet in question responded well to the treatment and care provided here at The Ark following the quick action taken by the owner and ourselves.

As the days get warmer and car trips to visit family and friends are more frequent in the holidays please take extra care with your pets.

You will know from the headlines that Pets can die if left in cars on hot days. Please make sure that if you really have to leave your pet in the car that you leave some water available if possible and also leave windows open for ventilation. Regular water breaks on hot travel days are also strongly recommended.

Excessive exercise on hot days without sufficient access to water can also induce this veterinary emergency. So please ensure that you take water and a small bowl with you where possible.

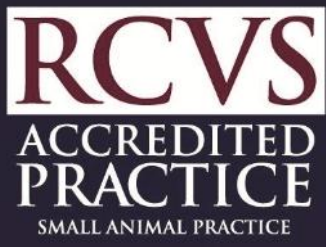

What will I see? Excessive, uncontrollable panting (open mouthed breathing), sometimes loss of consciousness and lethargy.

What do I do if I suspect my Pet is suffering from these symptoms? This is a veterinary emergency so please call us immediately. Wet towels placed over your pet and cooling with water can help but please get your pet to a vet asap wherever your location.

Stressed Pets?

ADVERT

Zylkène is a natural product, clinically proven to help dogs and cats manage stress and facilitate adaptation to change. Many common situations and events can be stressful and many pets find change, however small, difficult to cope with. Zylkène is manufactured to human pharmaceutical standards (GMP) and is available in three sizes – the different sized capsules are also colour coded. Zylkène has not been associated with any side effects, including sedation or memory loss and is suitable for many pets. For more information or to take the stressed pet 'quiz' online, please visit www.zylkene.co.uk

Pet of the Month

Our Pet of the Month for July is Moglet Wright. He originally came to us with poor appetite and lethargy. He has responded well to his treatment but has had to visit us for lots of tests due to the complicated nature of his illness. He has been so well behaved despite all the poking and prodding that we felt that he should definitely be our Pet of the Month for July.
